Well Shit!! This is it, the end of our 3rd and only one of us got kicked out. I still don't know how I got kicked back in.
It's been real and its been fun but it hasn't been real fun. This summer after my leave is done we'll go for some real Palm Springs action-
Be cool Bro.

Dedication

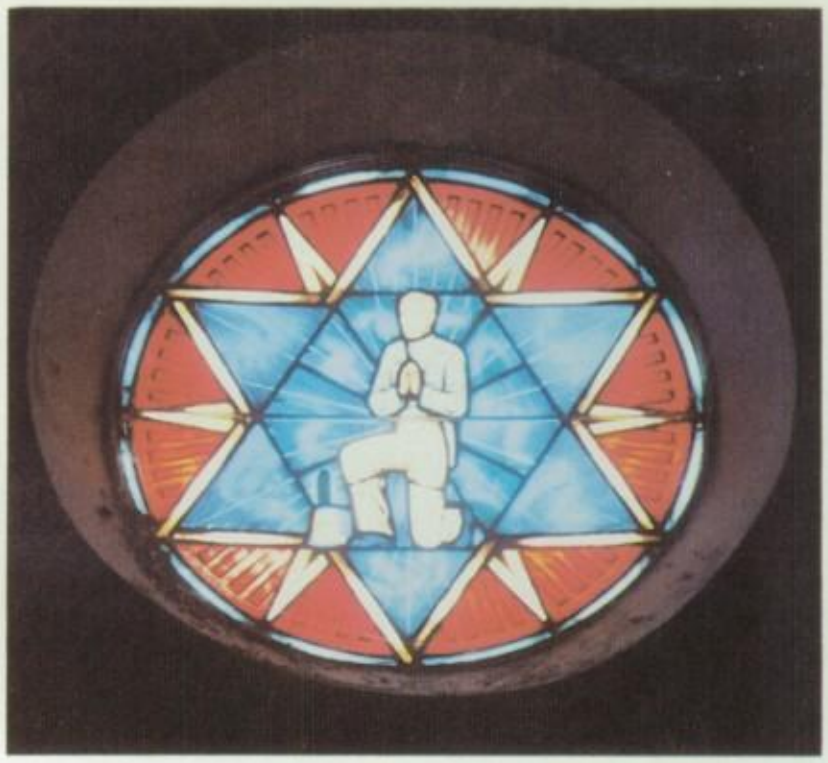
A perceptive educator once remarked that finding a teacher was among the easiest of tasks but that finding a good one was like hunting for that proverbial needle in a haystack. Our school was certainly lucky when it succeeded in uncovering one such "needle" in the person of Dr. David Pepper, instructor of mathematics. This gentleman has earned the esteem and affection of the cadets of Army and Navy Academy by dint of his expertise in the subjects he teaches and the countless hours he lavishes upon his pupils outside of class, sparing no effort to imbue them with a sound knowledge of and a fervent love for his cherished discipline, mathematics.

Dr. Pepper, however, is not just a specialist in numbers, formulae and theorems. He is well versed in jurisprudence and holds an advanced degree in that field. In addition, he knows and appreciates classical music; indeed, he can wax enthusiastic on the compositions of Mozart, Liszt, and Lehar as performed by such noted artists as Alicia de Larrocha, Jorge Bolet, and Fritz Wunderlich. Lexicology, another of Dr. Pepper's interests, is featured quite cleverly in the classroom as cadets learn quickly to anticipate the new, esoteric word for the day. A week's quota might easily result in a sesquipedalian, "literary" creation such as this:

> The maundering student had suffered an acute attack of hypoprosexia, thereby causing his sorely piqued teacher to berate him vociferously for his dearth of scholarly presence and pococurante attitude anent things academic."

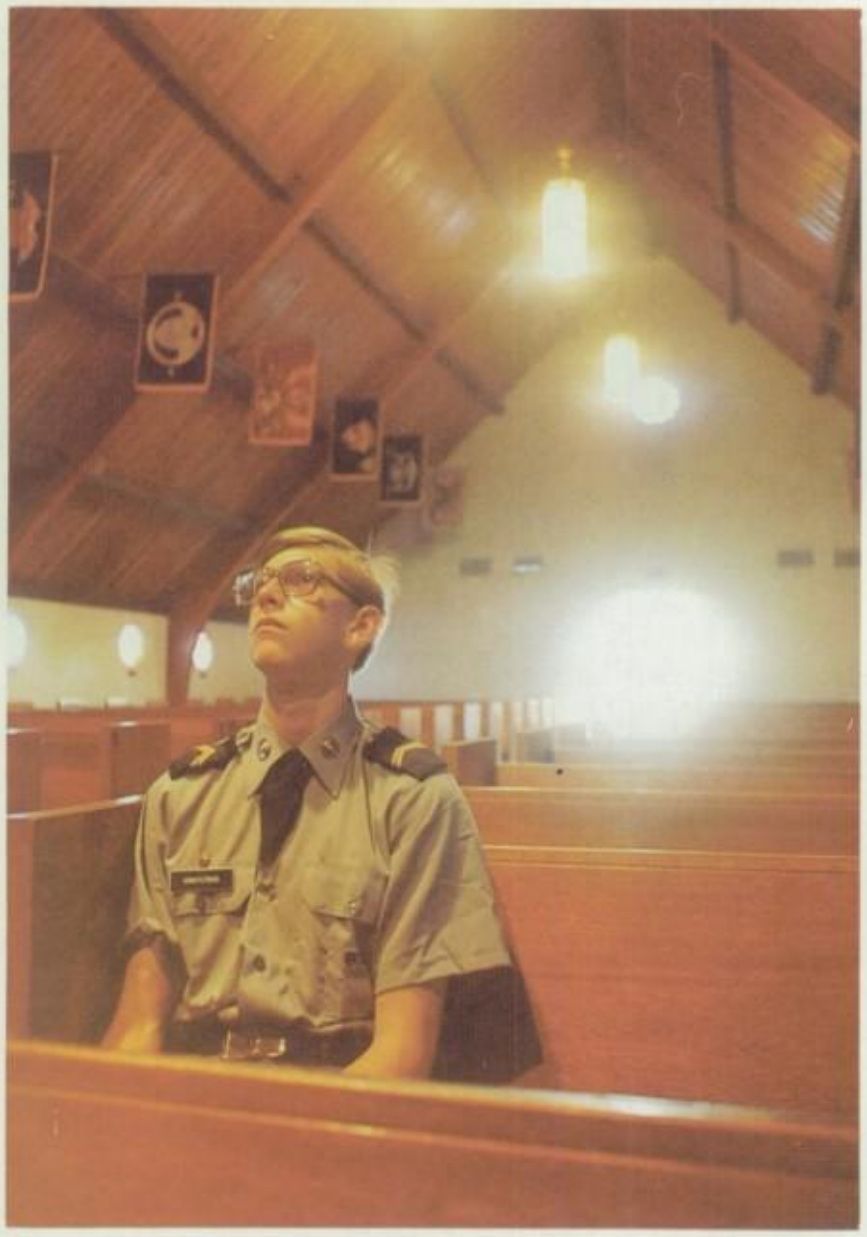
There is no doubt that our institution has been most fortunate in having on its faculty an instructor so dedicated and generous as Dr. Pepper. He would be a rare asset to any institution of learning. Consequently, the Adjutant Staff is pleased to recognize him as one superb teacher at our school.

Cadet Prayer



O God, our Father, Thou Searcher of men's hearts, help us draw near to Thee in sincerity and truth. May our religion be filled with gladness and may our worship of Thee be natural.

Strengthen and increase our admiration for honest dealing and clear thinking, and suffer not our hatred of hypocrisy and pretence ever to diminish. Encourage us in our endeavor to live above the common level of life. Make us to choose the harder right instead of the easier wrong, and never to be content with half a truth when the whole can be won.



Endow us with courage that is born of loyalty to all that is noble and worthy, that scorns to compromiser with vice and injustice and knows no fear when truth and right are in jeopardy.

Guard us against flippancy and irreverence in the sacred things of life. Grant us new ties of friendship and new opportunities of service. Kindle our hearts in fellowship with those of a cheerful countenance, and soften our hearts with sympathy for those who sorrow and suffer.

May we find genuine pleasure in clean and wholesome mirth and feel inherent disgust for all coarse-minded humor.

Help us, in our work and in our play, to keep ourselves physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight, that we may the better maintain the honor of the Corps untarnished and unsullied, and acquit ourselves like men in our effort to realize the ideals of the Academy in doing our duty to Thee and our Country.

All of which we ask in the name of the Great Friend and Master of men—Amen.

Alma Mater

Shelter'd by the Sun-kissed hills,
border'd by the Sea,
Hail to Alma Mater, our Mother ever be!
May thy standards lead us on—on to victory.
Hail to Alma Mater; All Hail; All Hail;
to Thee.

Loyal Sons of A.N.A., let your voices ring,
Praising Alma Mater, to Her we'll honor bring.
May thy mem'ry linger on through each fleeting year;
Binding us together in pathways far and near.

ACADEMIC DIVISION

The academic program at Army and Navy Academy is geared to prepare each cadet, after he has graduated, to continue his studies both confidently and successfully at any major college or university. The curriculum, therefore, includes the standard college preparatory courses in English, foreign languages, mathematics, science, and social studies. In addition, however, elective classes such as drafting, music, economics, typing, and photography are offered to supplement the main course of study. Since classes are rather small and teachers quite accessible, cadets can expect much extra help both during the class period through individualized attention and outside the class period through special tutorial sessions held daily after school. Indeed, some instructors — those of a more dedicated nature — give additional lessons to academically floundering cadets in the evenings and on weekends. Summarily stated, then, each cadet at this Academy has every opportunity to develop himself scholastically according to his innate potential as long as he has the courage and good sense to take advantage of all the help that is available to him.

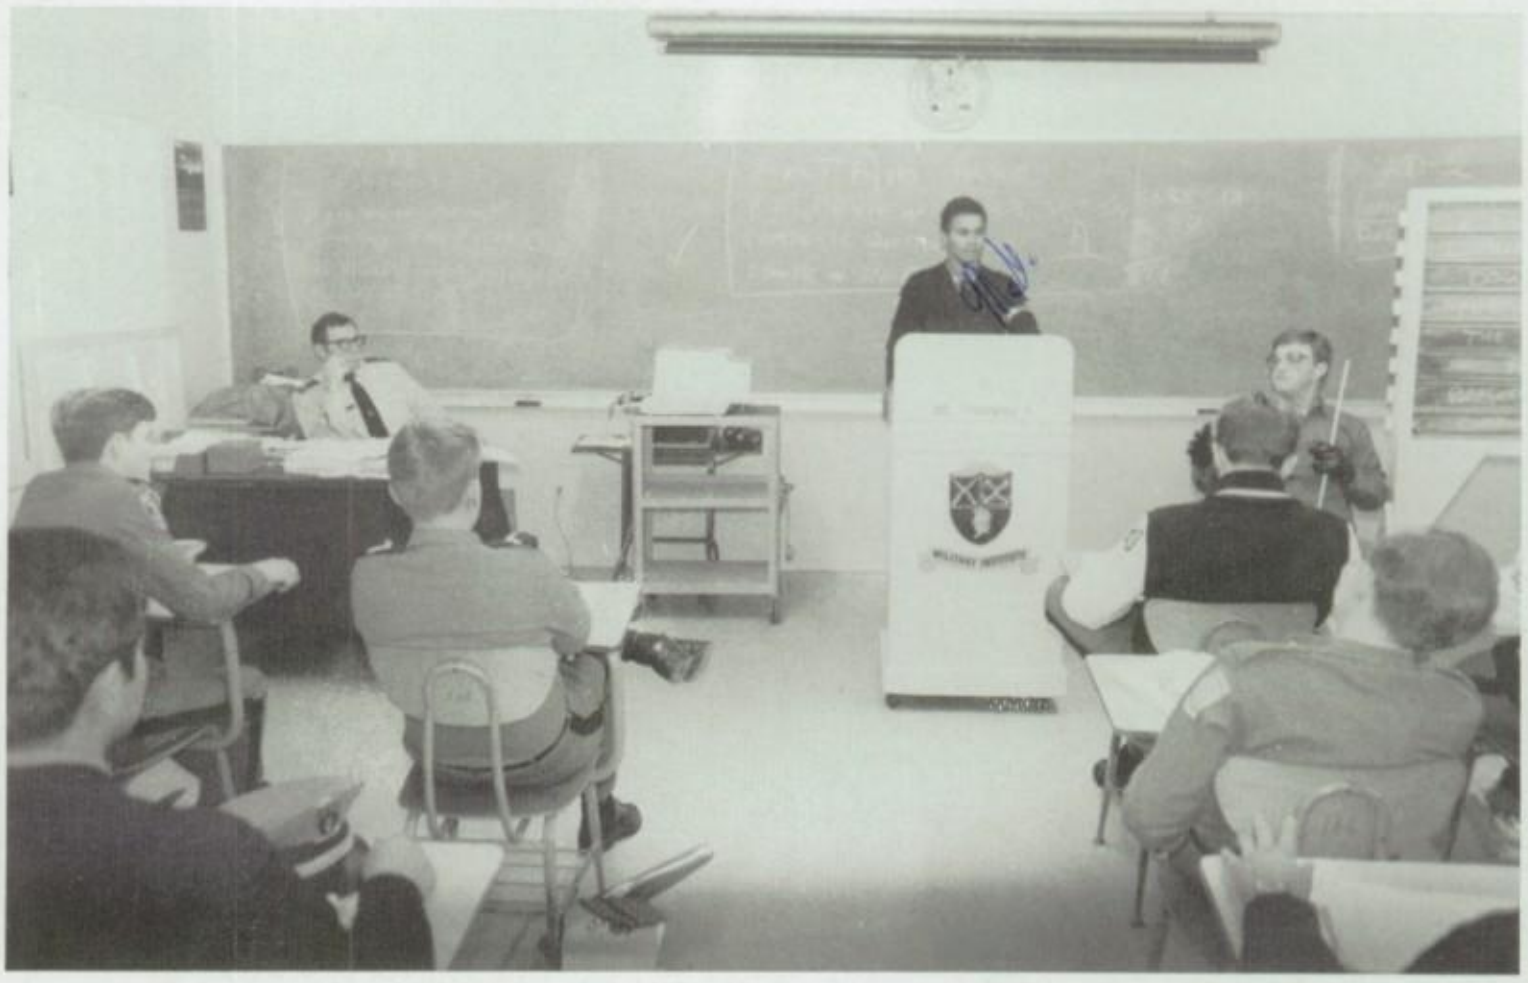
MILITARY

LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT



While the implementation of the first part of the Academy's motto, Pro Deo (For God), lies primarily in the province of the school's chaplains and Colonel Atkinson through his semiweekly chapel devotionals, the application of the second part of the Academy's motto, Pro Patria (For Country), i.e., the task of instilling patriotic values in the cadets, remains chiefly in the purview of the Military Department. Through the guidance of the military instructors and student leaders, cadets are induced to deepen their understanding of and love for the ideals and traditions of their native land. All cadets, therefore, receive classroom instruction in Leadership Development and then apply what they have learned by taking part in patriotic ceremonies, respecting constituted authority and cherishing the history and purpose of the armed services, our country's major source of defense.

DRILL AND PARADES

Every Wednesday afternoon at ANA, a bugle sounds from atop a big, white, box-like building, and a small, but organized group of clean-shaven, ruggedly handsome young men with gold bands on their hats and wearing shiny black shoes scours the campus, dragging slow, witless cadets from their rooms. When all the cadets are out and in neat orderly lines, the drilling commences. It lasts for an hour.

These weekly, hour-long sessions are supposed to prepare the slow, witless cadets for parades, which are actually long drill sessions. The difference is that the cadets wear formal clothing and march to music.

SPECIAL EVENTS

IN MEMORIAM

Come, lay his books and papers by,
He shall not need them more,
The ink shall dry upon his pen,
So softly close the door.
His tired head with locks of white,
And like the winter's sun,
Hath lain to peaceful rest tonight,
The teacher's work is done.

His work is done; no care tonight
His tranquil rest shall break,
Sweet dreams, and with the morning
light,
His noble thoughts; his wise appeal,
His works that battles won;
But God doth know the loss we feel—
The teacher's work is done.

We feel it, while we miss the hand
That made us brave to bear,
Perchance in that near-touching land
His work did wait him there.
Perchance, when death its change
hath wrought,
And his brief tract is run,
His voice again shall teach, who thought
The teacher's work is done.

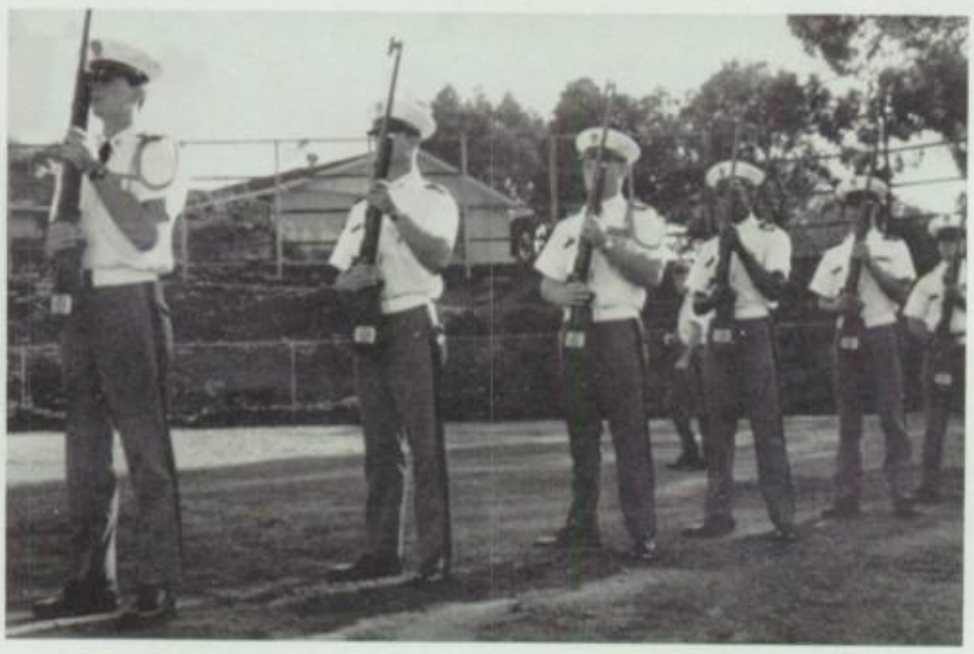
(Read at the services for Colonel G. N. Brookhart, 27 October 1982.)

Colonel G.N. Brookhart

The beginning of the 1982-83 school year was darkened at Army and Navy Academy by a sad and painful event. On 23 October 1982, Colonel G. N. Brookhart, President of Army and Navy Academy, died after a long period of illness.

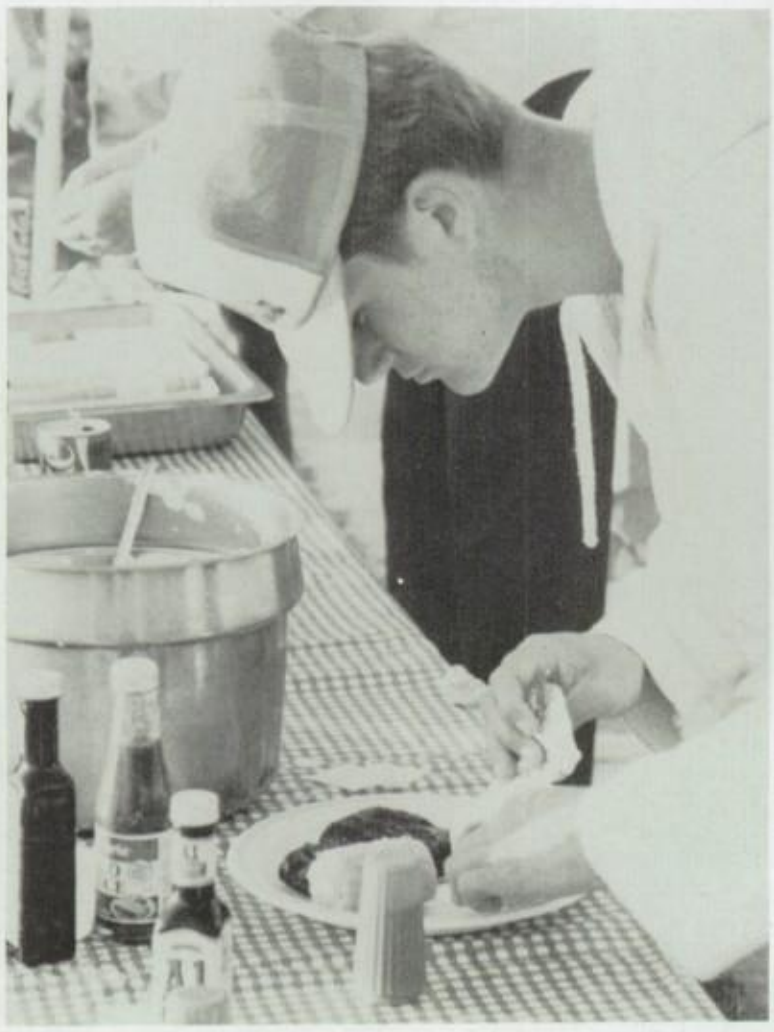
Colonel Brookhart was born in Idaho in 1932. He attended Idaho State University, where he earned a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in history. In 1959, he came to Army and Navy and was employed as an instructor of both history and English. He was elevated to the office of Dean of Instruction in 1974, and, with the retirement of Colonel W.C. Atkinson in 1980, to the office of President. He held this office for the last two years and two months of his life.

Humble, wise and perceptive, Colonel Brookhart was an eminently humane man, so concerned with the happiness and well-being of those around him that every student and colleague came to consider him a personal friend and mentor. He was a person filled with an motivated by a rare love—love of God, love of life and love of his fellow man. Thus Sancho Panza's epitaph for Don Quixote may be applied just as appropriately to Colonel G. N. Brookhart: "He was a man in love; nobody knows why." (B.P.B.)



On 27 October 1982, a memorial parade was held on the Academy field in honor of Colonel G. N. Brookhart. In the course of the ceremony, a specially chosen firing squad performed a three-round salute to the colonel, and Cadet Albert Gonzales presented a flag to the colonel's sister-in-law, Mrs. Ray Brookhart.

BEACH PARTIES



The 1982-83 school year was "kicked off" with a series of beach parties held five times on consecutive Tuesdays and Thursdays. The purpose of these get-togethers was to promote camaraderie among the cadets, both old and new. There was plenty of food on hand, including hamburgers, steaks, salad, candy and cold drinks.

AUTUMN BALL WEEKEND

Major Stoll says a few words about seniors, rings and things.

Mrs. Perez presents her son, Fausto, with his ring.

The weekend of November 5th, 6th and 7th was the time selected for the annual Autumn Ball and related social activities and traditional formal ceremonies. The program of events began on Friday evening with a jazz concert, which featured some excellent musicians who delighted the audience with their skillful performance. On the following Saturday morning, the Academy sponsored a surfing contest for willing cadet surfers. The winners this year were Abraham Johnson, David Cornelison and Craig Power in the junior, intermediate and senior divisions. Later that same day, the junior varsity and varsity football teams competed against Holtville High School. While the junior varsity players lost miserably—the score is withheld out of embarrassment—, the varsity athletes triumphed with a score of 7-0. In the early evening, a dignified, but intimate ceremony was held in the chapel, where senior cadets received their class rings from persons whom they themselves requested to present them. Following the ring ceremony was the Autumn Ball, which continued until after midnight. After church services on Sunday morning, parents were able to meet with individual instructors to discuss their sons' scholastic progress. The weekend finally concluded with a military parade, which was graced by a stunning performance by Milton's Guard, the Academy's senior drill platoon. During the military ceremonies at this parade, Battalion Commander, Leiutenant Colonel Randy Stafford, was awarded the "Silver A", the most prestigious honor conferred at this Academy.

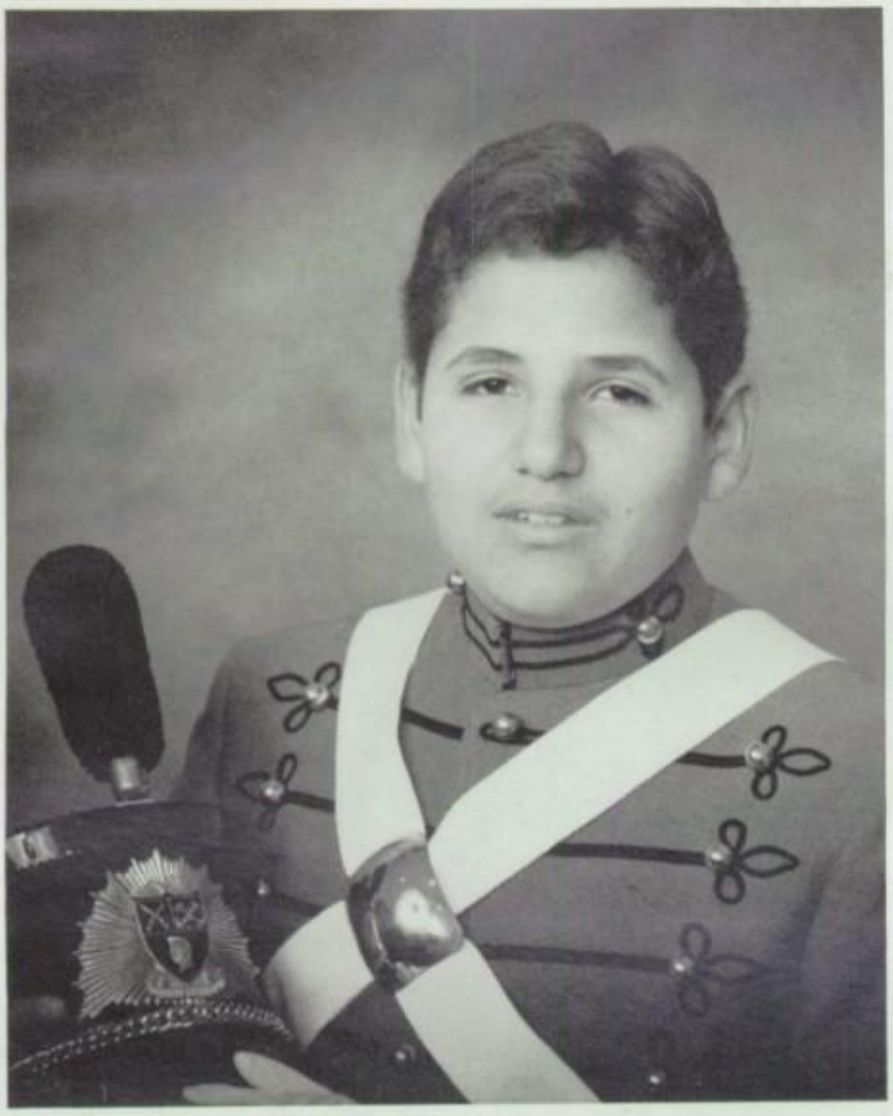
OCEANSIDE PARADE

This year, ANA was again invited by the Oceanside Chamber of Commerce to participate in the Annual Oceanside Christmas Parade. The Academy responded by sending 150 cadets—Milton's Guard, Stoll's Guard, the Color Guard, and the Band.



IN MEMORIAM

GUILLERMO ENRIQUE VELASCO SAENZ

Guillermo Enrique Velasco Saenz nació el diá 10 de enero de 1968 en la ciudad de México, D. F. Cursó sus estudios de escuela primaria en el colegio "Nueva Primaria de México." Guillermo continuó su educación en los Estados Unidos, siendo su motivo principal el aprender inglés. A este fin, el jóven Velasco ingresó en la académia militar llamada "Army and Navy Academy," situada en Carlsbad, California. Desde un principio, Guillermo supo destacarse en todo: por sus buenas notas, por su conducta ejemplar, obteniendo varias medallas, tanto en el aspecto académico, como en el programa militar.

Debido a su personalidad tan agradable, el también se ganó la amistad de todos los que le conocimos. Sue sinceridad y amabilidad fueron cualidades con las que el captivô la simpatía de todos sus compañeros.

El diá de 26 de Noviembre, en la ciudad de Tecate, Baja California, México, un accidente trágico automovilístico ocasionó el fallecimiento de Guillermo Velasco, y con su inesperada muerte, los cadetes en "Army and Navy Academy" perdieron a un verdadero amigo.

Guillermo se ha separado de nosotros para siempre, pero en el corto tiempo que tuvimos compartiendo nuestras vidas, el jóven ejemplar nos legó el ejemplo modelo de un buen cadete, cuya memoria permanecerá en nuestras mentes el resto de nuestras vidas.

Guillermo Enrique Velasco Saenz was born on January 10, 1968 in Mexico City, Mexico. He completed his elementary education in the school "Nueva Primaria de Mexico." Guillermo continued his education in the United States mainly because of his intense desire to learn English. To accomplish this end, the young Velasco matriculated in the military school called Army and Navy Academy, which is located in Carlsbad, California. From the very beginning, Guillermo knew how to distinguish himself in every way, winning awards for exemplary conduct, academic excellence and military superiority.

Because of his genial disposition, he won the affection of all of us who knew him. His sincerity and amiability were qualities through which he captured the hearts of his companions.

On November 26, 1982, in the city of Tecate, Baja California, Mexico, a tragic automobile accident took the life of Guillermo Velasco, and with his unexpected death, the cadets at Army and Navy Academy lost a real friend.

Guillermo has been separated from us forever, but in the short time that we spent in sharing our lives together with him, he has shown himself to be an example of a model cadet, whose memory will perdure in our minds for the rest of our lives.

TREE-PLANTING CEREMONY

This year, the annual Tree-Planting ceremony honored not only those killed at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941 but also Army and Navy Academy's own deceased President, Colonel G. N. Brookhart, and Cadet Guillermo Velasco. This threefold commemoration, then, was paralleled by the planting of three trees.

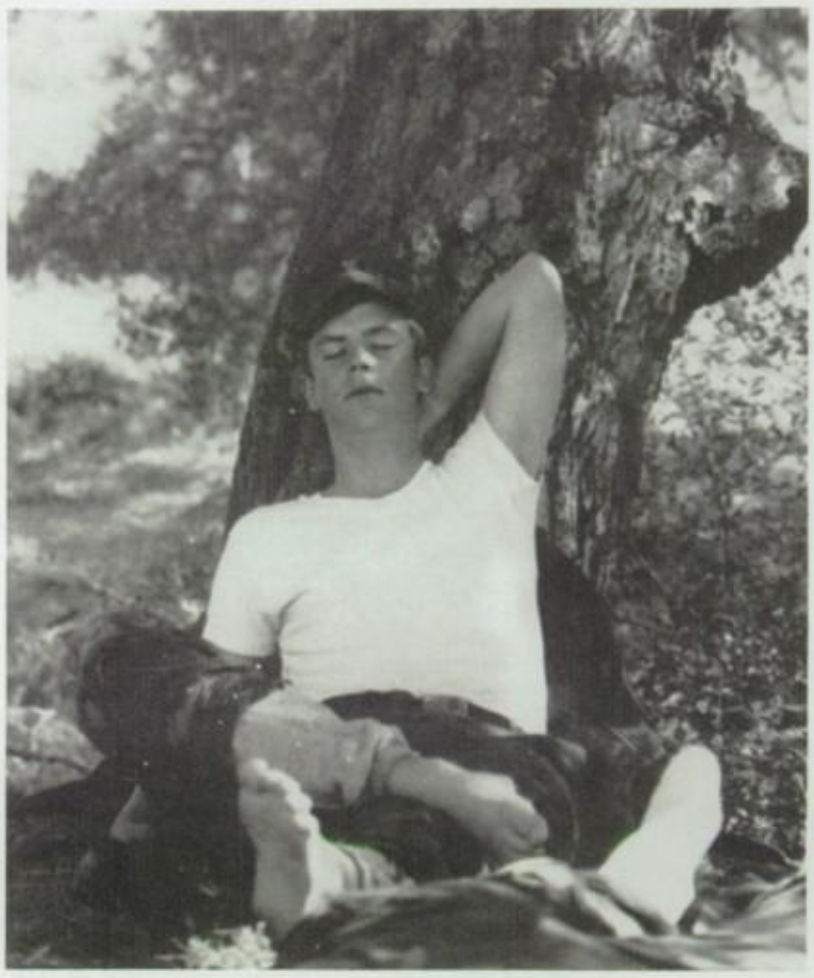
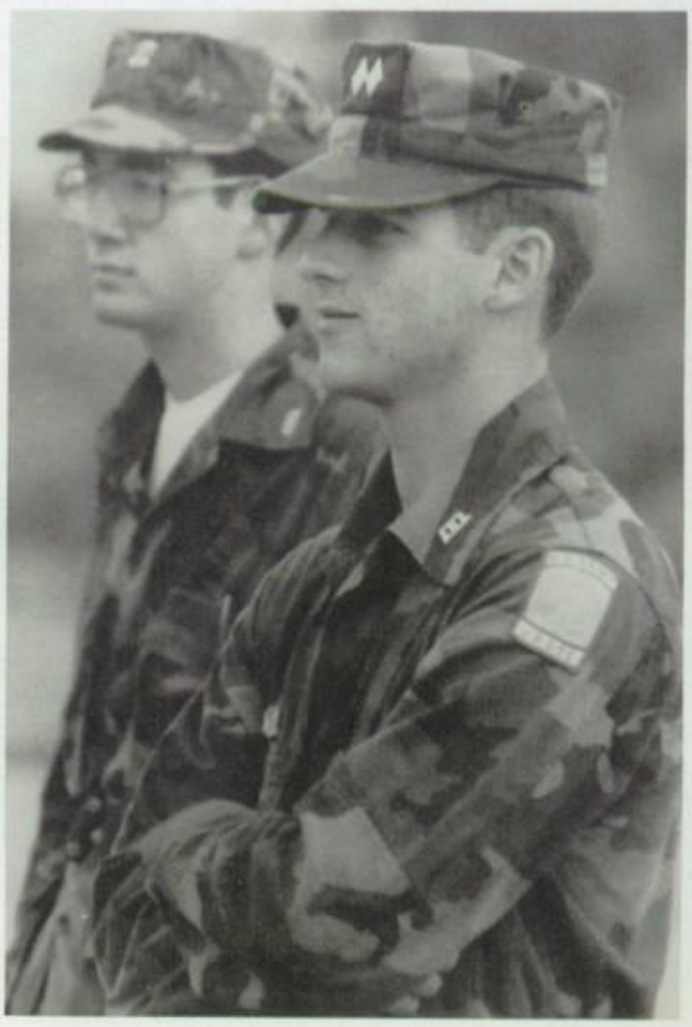
CAMP PENDLETON WEEKEND

During the four-day weekend of February 18th through February 21st, approximately seventy-five of the Academy's hardier cadets visited Camp Pendleton, a nearby Marine base. There they lived the actual, nitty-gritty life of the lowly Marines. A few couldn't hack it, but the vast majority persevered to the bitter end. When the survivors arrived back at the Academy, they were one sorry and bedraggled lot. Each participant, however, felt improved by the experience of seeing how life is truly led in the real military.





ADMINISTRATION AND STAFF

ADMINISTRATIVE AND ACADEMIC OFFICES

Sound leadership is a sine qua non for the correct operation of any sizable organization. When the untimely death of Colonel Brookhart left the position of President vacant, a sound leader was discovered in Mr. Fred Rowbotham, who is presently serving as the Chief Executive Officer of the Academy until a permanent successor to Colonel Brookhart can be named. Mr. Rowbotham is assisted by able and sage personnel: Mrs. Cleo Schlink, Mrs. Beverly Fuller and Mrs. Jean Straw.

The Academic Office is headed by an astute man, Mr. Don Colby; he is aided in his work by Mrs. Mary Curtis, the school's registrar, and Mr. W. S. Howarth, the Academy's academic counselor. Mr. John Maffucci directs all affairs relating to school activities and athletics. His trusty helpers are Mrs. Vera Boles, secretary, and Mrs. Barbara Gage, the social directress.

Without these people, our campus would be filled with pale, thin, anemic skeletons. We also wish to express our gratitude to those unsung heroes of A.N.A., the maintenance department and mess hall staff, without whose hard work our lush verdant campus would be a scraggly, barren wasteland and the cadet corps a pack of hunger-starved marauders.

Our lush, verdant campus, which, without the maintenance department's hard work, would be a scraggly, barren wasteland.

CHAPEL

Addressing the spiritual needs of its student body, Army and Navy Academy provides religious services for the cadets of the major denominations of the United States: Judaism, Catholicism and Protestantism. On Saturday evenings, Major David Stoll conducts devotionals for the Jewish cadets. On Sunday mornings, Father Martin McGovern and Reverend John Bell hold services for the Catholic and Protestant cadets respectively. Twice during the week, Colonel Atkinson "thinks with all the cadets" about meaningful principles of right living.

Mrs. Evangeline Zepeda

A FEW REMARKS FROM THE ADVISER . . .

The reduction of this year's Adjutant by forty pages—quite a curtailment, indeed!—comes about as the result of financial duress. Since a smaller yearbook means a cheaper one, then a smaller annual, unfortunately, is what we must have. The pecuniary culprits, rising printing costs and fewer contributing patrons, are variables over which one has little control. Several of the cadets who attempted to sell ads to a number of local businesses heard, in response to their solicitations, variations on this theme: "Sure, we'd like to help you, but business is poor this year. Try us again next year." After much thought and lengthy consultation with my good friend and mentor, the late Colonel Brookhart, who possessed considerable expertise in "yearbookery," I outlined a shorter and cheaper book, believing that, even in its abridged form, this year's Adjutant could still cover all aspects of our Academy adequately and justly. The success of this endeavor will no doubt be controverted in some circles, where both students and staff will feel either chagrined or disparaged by what they consider to be serious omissions. But excising forty pages necessitates abbreviating almost every section of the yearbook; this task, I believe, my staff and I have accomplished more or less satisfactorily. I apologize most sincerely for any blatant errors or exclusions; these occurred unwittingly—probably through the weakness of both spirit and flesh of an exhausted yearbook adviser, who travailed through a year that for him was truly jejune and arid as far as imagination and creativity are concerned.

I conclude my Apologia Pro Hoc Libello by thanking my cadet-colleagues individually, for their praises and virtues would otherwise surely go unsung.

First, I thank my editor, Fausto Perez. He has won my admiration for his meticulous hard work, unwavering sense of responsibility, gentle disposition and just plain goodness. Many were the occasions on which he laid some really soothing unction to his poor adviser's battered psyche.

Second, I thank my dear friend, Brian Brady, whose brilliance as a student and fine talent as a writer have not only piqued my own intellect but also warmed my inner being. Brian sacrificed many a home leave to work on the annual, and his efforts contributed much to raising its quality far above that of mediocrity.

Third, I thank Todd Weseloh, my trusty photographer, expert in his craft and ever eager to help in a crisis—and there were many crises during the year.

And finally I thank Santiago Aguirre, a recent addition to the journalism crew. Quiet and polite in his bearing and always precise in his work, he added much to the smooth running of our little operation.

To all the cadets and personnel of Army and Navy Academy go my warm wishes and heart-felt gratitude, for without them, there would, of course, be no Adjutant.

Very sincerely,

John W. Fendrick

Life is a span of time full of opportunities. Some of these opportunities are really wonderful blessings to everyone, so that success and personal satisfaction may be achieved. Personally, I have been most fortunate, for in my young life I have already been granted numerous pragmatic opportunities. Some of these opportunities could be better identified as honors and privileges.

One of the most satisfying privileges I have enjoyed so far has been that of attending Army and Navy Academy. I owe this unique advantage to beloved and dedicated parents, whose sacrifices and total giving have made it possible for me to pursue and secure a sound and valuable education. Needless to say, I am most grateful to my parents for their generosity.

The fact that during the last three years I have had the privilege of attending Army and Navy Academy has bestowed upon me the blessing of having dedicated and understanding instructors, whose unlimited dedication has not only provided me with superior academic instruction, but also a great deal of moral guidance to appreciate the true values of life. To them go my sincere thanks for such a priceless personal contribution to my growth and development.

My three years at the Academy have been a truly rewarding experience, but this year, my senior year, has been perhaps the most satisfying. The main reason for such a wonderful personal feeling has been the fact that I was chosen to be the editor of the yearbook. This honor has been a real challenge, whose persistent demands have taught me to appreciate the value of responsibility and other important good habits, which I shall always carry with me as reliable resources to achieve the goals of my future endeavors.

My personal thanks to the yearbook adviser for his advice, assistance and encouragement!

Very special thanks to Mr. Crescente Espeso, my cherished mentor and dear friend, for all the support and moral guidance he has given me during my stay at this Academy!

My profound gratitude goes to my colleagues, the dedicated cadets, whose hard work in creating the Adjutant for 1983 has made the book one that we can be proud of. It is my sincere hope that this annual will give all of you a great deal of enjoyment and serve as a real treasure chest of fond memories for years to come.

Respectfully,

Fausto Perez

COLONEL W.C. ATKINSON

Gentility, refinement, tact, warmth, strength of conviction, and a strong sense of leadership are terms which delineate the personality of a man who dedicated his life to the tuition of young men. For almost sixty years, Colonel Atkinson edified innumerable cadets through his wisdom and gentlemanly demeanor as he filled several different educational roles in a school which he himself established. Colonel "Atty"—as he was dubbed affectionately by his students— predicated his institution on a philosophy embodying reverence for the divine, love of country, desire for knowledge and respect for authority; he strove assiduously to instill these values in the minds of the boys entrusted to his care. While the majority of mankind passes out of this world, leaving little trace of its earthly existence, we may indeed be certain that Colonel Atkinson has achieved a kind of immortality by dint of the wholesome influence he exerted upon the cadets whose characters he did much to help mold.

I Would Be True*

I would be true, for there are those who trust me;
I would be pure, for there are those who care:
I would be strong, for there is much to suffer;
I would be brave for there is much to dare.

I would be friend of all—the foe, the friendless;
I would be giving, and forget the gift;
I would be humble, for I know my weakness;
I would look up, and laugh and love and lift.

I would be learning day by day the lessons
My heav'nly Father gives me in His Word;
I would be quick to hear His lightest whisper,
And prompt and glad to do the things I've heard.

I would be prayerful through each busy moment;
I would be constantly in touch with God;
I would be tuned to hear His slightest whisper,
I would have faith to keep the path Christ trod. Amen

(*The text of this hymn, a favorite of Colonel Atkinson, is a neat summary of his own personal philosophy.)
